

Glass Wall Shattered as Big Iron Shuttered

Dan Richman, Computerworld, Dec. 4, 1995, p 8—Profile of Global Marine, Inc.

One World Without Unix

Julia King, Computerworld, Dec. 4, 1995, p 12—J. D. Edwards & Co. delays Unix versions of its software.

Digital Boosts OpenVMS

Neal Weinberg, Computerworld, Dec. 4, 1995, p 16.

Old Guard Changing Chips, Storage Options

Michael Goldberg, Computerworld, Dec. 4, 1995, p 28.

Sun SPARCs Low End

Computerworld, Dec. 4, 1995, p 57—Item in "Briefs."

D-Day Nears for Win API Clone

John Foley, InformationWeek, Dec. 4, 1995, p 20—ECMA expected to approve Applications Programming Interface for Windows (APIW).

Digital to Uncover OpenVMS-NT Affinity

Jason Pontin, InfoWorld, Dec. 4, 1995, pp 39, 41.

Users Laud OpenVMS Revival

Michael Goldberg, Computerworld, Dec. 11, 1995, p 10.

Compaq Serves Up Unix

John Swenson, InformationWeek, Dec. 11, 1995, p 22—Compaq to offer Solaris for its ProLiant server.

Tadpole Releases 233MHz Machine

Jill Gamlion, InformationWeek, Dec. 11, 1995, p 28—Fastest notebook runs Unix.

Crafting an Open Systems Framework

John Foley, InformationWeek, Dec. 11, 1995, p 101—X/Open to develop architectural framework for open systems.

11 Years Ago in InfoWorld: Unix and the Single User: Still No Match in PC World

InfoWorld, Dec. 11, 1995, p 71.

Servers Give New Shape to Pyramid Line

Michael Goldberg, Computerworld, Dec. 18, 1995, p 10.

Windows Standard Goes "Public"

Frank Hayes, Computerworld, Dec. 18, 1995, p 14—ECMA ratifies APIW standard.

Unix Unity Foundering?

John Foley, InformationWeek, Dec. 18, 1995, p 28—Hewlett-Packard and SCO have differences.

NYSE Heads Off a Crash

Mary Hayes, InformationWeek, Dec. 18, 1995, pp 59-60—Profile of New York Stock Exchange.

The Push to 64-Bit Systems

Joseph C. Panettieri and Marianne Kolbasuk, InformationWeek, Dec. 18, 1995, p 108.

Sun's Java Adds New Unix Brews

Clinton Wilder, InformationWeek, Dec. 25, 1995, p 22—OSF ports Java.

OSF Will Back X/Open Naming

John Foley and Caryn Gillooly, InformationWeek, Dec. 25, 1995, p 24.

The Beginning of the End for Unix?

Gregory C. Garry, Client/Server Computing, December 1995, p 14—Intel's Pentium Pro.

DCE: An Environment for Secure Client/Server Computing

Michael M. Kong, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 6-15.

Adopting DCE Technology for Developing Client/Server Applications

Paul Lloyd and Samuel D. Horowitz, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 16-22.

DCE Directory Services

Michael M. Kong and David Truong, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 23-27.

X/Open Federated Naming

Elizabeth A. Martin, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 28-33.

An Evolution of DCE Authorization Services

Deborah L. Caswell, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 49-54.

An Object-Oriented Application Framework for DCE-Based Systems

Mihaela C. Gittler, Michael Z. Luo and Luis M. Maldonado, Hewlett-Packard Journal, December 1995, pp 55-60.

A Novel Idea, Part II

Andrew Binstock, Unix Review, December 1995, p 7—Novell's Unix strategy.

Outstanding Products of 1995

Unix Review, December 1995, pp 37-38, 40-41.

Unix Upheaval

Windows Magazine, December 1995, p 36—Novell sells UnixWare to SCO.

ReadMe File

Fred Davis, Windows Magazine, December 1995, pp. 59-60—"Windows NT Server has finally found its killer app: the Internet." IT

Eric S. Rosenthal is an East Coast-based technical consultant.

COMPANIES MENTIONED IN THIS ISSUE

FEATURES

Will the Internet Stay Open?: p. 18

CommerceNet
Cybercash
EIT/VeriFone
Envisioneering Group
First Virtual
FTP Software
MCI
Microsoft
Netscape
Open Market
RSA Data Security
Santa Cruz Operation
Sun Microsystems
Terisa Systems
VeriSign

The Race for Data Access: p. 26

AT&T Teradata
Control Data
DEC
Ernst & Young
Hewlett-Packard

IBM
Informix
Novell
Oracle
Red Brick Systems
SAP America
Sybase
Tandem

Electronic Software Distribution: A Long Shot: p. 32

Hewlett-Packard
IBM
Lan Support Group
Landovation
Legent
Microsoft
Novell
Oracle
Platinum
Seagate
SunSoft

Sea-Land Sets New Course with IT: p. 38

AST Research
C-Plex
Delrina Software
IBM
Microsoft
Oracle
Powersoft
Sun Microsystems
Sybase

COLUMNS

Behind the News: p. 12

DEC
Hewlett-Packard
IBM
Intel
Novell
Santa Cruz Operation
SunSoft
X/Open

Dealing with Client/Server: p. 46

Hewlett-Packard
IBM
Informix
Intel
Microsoft
Oracle
Sun Microsystems
Sybase

In the Public Interest: p. 48

Santa Cruz Operation
Sun Microsystems

The Analyst's Couch: p. 64

AT&T
IBM
Microsoft
Sun Microsystems